Obama plans to speak near Berlin's Brandenburg Gate.

Obama arrived in Berlin on Wednesday morning, and will spend several hours there discussing the global financial crisis with European leaders. He is expected to announce a new strategy for dealing with the crisis during his visit.

Obama is scheduled to meet with Chancellor Angela Merkel of Germany later this week. The two leaders are expected to discuss a range of issues, including the global economy, climate change, and security.

Obama's visit to Berlin comes at a time of high tension between the United States and Europe over a range of issues, including the war in Afghanistan and the financial crisis.

Obama is expected to meet with Merkel on Thursday, and then travel to Italy to meet with Italian Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi. The two leaders are expected to discuss the global economy and security.

Obama's visit to Berlin is part of a larger tour of Europe that includes stops in the United Kingdom, France, and Germany. The trip is expected to last several days.
